ANNUAL REPORT
2020 - 2021
The Amy Foundation Trust, (formerly known as the Amy Biehl Foundation Trust), (https://amyfoundation.co.za/) is a non-profit organization that aims to educate and develop young children and youth from impoverished and vulnerable communities. At the foundation, we offer a wide range of programmes, such as the afterschool programme (ASP), the youth skills development programme (YSD) as well as programmes specially designed for aspiring entrepreneurs. These programmes are designed for primary, secondary and post-matric students, thus empowering them to be economically active citizens. Our enriching afterschool programmes, bridge the large vacuum created by the poor quality of education most learners receive in the townships and the youth skills development programmes play a pivotal role in reducing the high level of unemployment in these impoverished communities.

The Board and Audit committee members are independent from the organization
I am proud to be chairing an organisation as strong and sustainable as the Amy Foundation. Together with my colleagues on the board as well as the Audit, Risk, and Governance committee members, it is a privilege to be working to change so many lives and make such a difference in our society. The financial year ending 28 February 2021 was a tough one with COVID-19 and its impact on everyone’s lives, causing our income to decline.

Despite the challenges, however, Amy Foundation was able to continue working tirelessly with youngsters from challenged and vulnerable communities, giving them hope and opportunities they would never have had, even doing virtual classes during the lockdown and at the same time feeding communities. The After School Programmes continued to keep the children away from all the negative influences during the year under review and created emotionally well-rounded future leaders our country needs.

The Youth Skills Development Programme placed youth in employment, internships, or their businesses and continues to address the unacceptably high level of youth unemployment. The Board of Trustees would like to thank all our Donors, Funding partners, Ambassadors, and Stakeholders for their generosity and support and who played a crucial role in the success of the Foundation.

Rob Williams
Despite COVID-19 Amy Foundation managed to not only survive but thrive, even though our income was so negatively affected. Funding amid a pandemic proved to be very stressful and challenging but we showed that one can rise above any obstacle. With up to 1000 youngsters in our programmes daily and a dramatic increase in costs due to virtual classes during the strict lockdown, the Amy Foundation was a testimony of what is possible.

The staff worked tirelessly to continue changing lives. We did feeding schemes to, not just our children, but the community too. Our onsite classes were in full swing again from September 2020 with a hybrid of virtual, new intakes in our youth skills development programme whilst continuing with advanced classes and our after school programmes, with all protocols in place. It is heart-warming to see the outstanding work being carried out and especially the positive impact on our learners and how life-changing it is for them. To date, by the end of the financial year, we had placed 1053 students in employment and started 36 new businesses.

I was recently asked by someone what the best thing is about running the Amy Foundation, and my answer was immediate "the results and outcomes that we see in the growth and development of the learners that have come through our programmes" This is all thanks to our staff, donors, and supporters who have made all this achievable and continue to do so.

We are extremely grateful and blessed to know that we are all in this together; making the difference South Africa needs.

Kevin Chaplin
Poverty is not just about the economic level. Poverty and social exclusion impact children and young people’s lives across a variety of physical, cognitive, behavioural, emotional and economic domains. Those living in poverty are more likely to suffer malnutrition, low self-esteem, do less well at school, suffer unemployment, low pay and poor health in adulthood. Poverty has a particularly adverse effect on the academic outcomes of children as well as job training and jobs skills needed for success in today’s world. Inadequate education contributes to these outcomes.

Education should be the first step to the success children have in South Africa. Yet the system is failing a vast group of children. For example, the 2020 matric pass rate of 76.2% is very misleading. This cohort started school in 2009 with a total enrolment of 1,072,992 students. Yet by the time of matric, the total number of learners was 578,468. Of this group 440,702 passed matric. So what happened to the other 494,525 learners? This dropout rate of almost 50% is unacceptable. Our educational system is failing far too many students.

The Amy Foundation’s programmes educate and develop children and youth from challenged and vulnerable communities. We work to keep the learners away from all the negative influences in their lives. We provide After School Programmes (ASP), and Youth Skills development and entrepreneurial programmes (YSD).

ASP supports up to 500 children and youth daily in our three after school centres based in the underprivileged communities of Cape Town, namely Gugulethu, Bonteheuwel with 400 learners planned in our new centre in Philippi in July 2021.

The ASP programme attempts to fill gaps and lower the dropout rate by offering tutoring and other activities not usually available to learners in school. There is a need to keep children in school. There needs to be a way to help them develop the knowledge needed to succeed in life. The programmes attempt to supplement the shortcomings of the educational system in the townships.
Assessment of ASP is carried out through our in-house monitoring and evaluation framework. We utilize both quantitative and qualitative models to collect data. A standard and well-structured curriculum are followed, with discipline-specific lesson plans and assessments. Components of the quantitative portion of evaluation include attendance records and children fed. We also use survey data from facilitators, volunteers, learners and partners. Qualitative data is obtained through written survey responses, interviews, observation and the services of an external evaluator. The programme evaluation also relies on communication with the teachers in the schools to monitor achievement. Programme planning also uses information obtained through a yearly cost analysis.

For young adults, unemployment is arguably the single most significant obstacle to poverty reduction in South Africa. South Africa has the highest unemployment rates in the world for people younger than 34. According to the Quarterly Labour Force Survey (QLFS) of the 1st quarter of 2021, young people are still struggling in the South African labour market. The official unemployment rate is 34.9%. but the burden of unemployment is concentrated amongst the youth as 59.5% of the 18 – 35-year-olds are unemployed. The unemployment rate among the youth is high irrespective of education level. These are staggering statistics highlight the need for our Amy Foundation Youth Skills Development (YSD) Programme.

YSD supports over 100 youth daily at our centre for youth skills development and training in Sybrand Park, with youth attending from all the various townships, as far afield as Khayelitsha.
This programme focuses on unemployed youth aged 18-35 with a job placement success rate of over 80%. Since our programme began, we have placed in employment and entrepreneurship over 1000 participants.

Our Expenses include transportation costs, which play an important part in the ultimate success of the programme. Getting the participants to and from Sybrand Park for training, as well as subsidising their transport during internships and until they receive their first pay-check is vital.

YSD's main disciplines are Hospitality, Sewing & Design, Beauty, Technical and Handyman Skills. Additionally, the learners participate in Retail Readiness, Job readiness/ Soft skills, Entrepreneurship and Enterprise Development.

Our programme is also about ongoing mentorship, nurturing and sustaining the relationships with these learners. It is not just about placing them into entry-level jobs, it is about setting them up for careers or assisting them in starting a small business.

Spread across the disciplines we serve annually Post COVID-19 pandemic – 398 (Pre COVID-19 – 600) learners. We are also currently assisting 20 new micro-businesses and 36 existing new businesses with 50 planned for the remainder of 2021.

Assessment of YSD is carried out through our in-house monitoring and evaluation framework. We utilize both quantitative and qualitative models to collect data. A standard and well-structured curriculum are followed, with discipline-specific lesson plans and assessments.

Components of the quantitative portion of evaluation include attendance records, internship numbers, job placements and businesses started. We also use survey data from facilitators, volunteers, learners and partners.

Qualitative data is obtained through written survey responses, interviews and observation and the services of an external evaluator. In YSD the monitoring of internships and job placements is continuous.
The Amy Foundation has served township communities for over 24 years. The Foundation has a solid, visible and credible reputation in the townships of Gugulethu based at Siyazingisa Primary School, in Bonteheuwel based at Mimosa Primary School and Bonteheuwel High School and our planned fourth centre, at Bongolethu Primary School in Browns Farm, Philippi.

The ASP provides a safe environment for learners from vulnerable communities in Cape Town where they engage in high-quality after school programmes that facilitates their well-roundedness. The ASP aims to keep children off the streets, where youngsters often succumb to the temptation of drugs and alcohol, engage in unsafe sex or become involved in gang-related violence.

Our programmes are driven by the desire to empower the students with the necessary skills that will enable them to be economically active, responsible citizens. Children and young adults are encouraged to participate fully in these empowering programmes, which offer them an opportunity to explore their areas of interest, as a prelude to their chosen careers, and, even at this level, to experience the sense of fulfilment that comes with success.
Our ASP is for school-going children, between the ages of 5 and 18 years. The ASP operates daily and attracts children from more than ten schools that are in the vicinity of our four after school centres. This programme has been seen to have a very profound effect on the children, as a result of its nurturing nature, practical content and a burning desire to help each child reach their true potential.

Our ASP focuses on:

Academic Outcomes: Higher school attendance, lower dropout indicators, better performance in schools, less disciplinary action, increase in literacy levels

Social/Emotional Outcomes: Decreased behavioural problems, improved social and communication skills, improved relationships with others.

Preventative Outcomes:

Decrease in delinquency and violent behaviour, increased knowledge of safe sex and aspects such as HIV/AIDS, avoidance of drug and alcohol use

Positive Citizenship Outcomes: Greening through establishing school vegetable gardens and environment and community development

Cultural and Arts Outcomes: Various Arts and Music Programmes providing for holistic development
The range of programmes include:

Greening
The aim of the Amy Foundation Greening and Environmental Programme is to engage and encourage learners to develop an understanding of the natural environment. Ultimately, we strive to inspire and motivate our learners to actively participate in making sustainable lifestyle choices.

ASP Challenges
Due to the COVID-19 pandemic:
• Volunteers who were teaching had to leave
• From April 2020, our centres were closed due to the lockdown.
• Most parents could not afford the cost of a smartphone or data so not all children were able to be reached virtually for classes
• Unreliable connectivity.
• Art and Culture Learners attended dance and marimba classes at UCT
• Remote teaching started at the end of April 2020
• Hip hop learners participated in a local dance competition and were placed in the top three
• Learners from Siyazingisa and Mimosa attended diving lessons
• Learners from Siyazingisa have been enrolled in the Gugulethu soccer league
• We acquired facilitating manuals from Sporting Chance, which will be integrated into the Amy Foundation sports programmes.
• Successful piloting of the Coach Assist app at Bonteheuwel High to track learner attendance

• Attending the Bonteheuwel High Career Expo and having an opportunity to engage with learners from the local community
• Three workshops were held to discuss and brainstorm the design of programmes to enable more effective evaluation of their quality and impact
• We distributed Grades 1 and 2 literacy workbooks, fifty Grades 4 - 7 maths workbooks, and as well as fifty Grades 4 - 7 literacy workbooks during lockdown
• We introduced an in-school programme that started at Mimosa Primary
• The Siyazingisa team started a holiday programme on 1 February 2021, after the re-opening of schools was postponed
• Facilitators received training from CoolPlay on nine specific life skills lessons that they can incorporate into their classes
• Coordinators and selected facilitators went on a two day First Aid Training course and ended with a Practical Assessment
• We explored a partnership with MOT (A Norwegian word for “Courage”) life skills programme and will progress in 2021 as well as Boks Kids for sport (Reebok Foundation).
Run from our offices in Sybrand Park, Athlone, the Youth Skills Development programme focuses on unemployed youth aged 18 – 35. The programme has a placement success rate of over 80%. We have focused on the creation and development of entrepreneurs. YSD is well-positioned for 2022, the 2021/2022 financial year and is striving to reach an even greater network of learners. The programme has already reached 95% of learners and last year, YSD conducted virtual sewing, beauty, enterprise development, and hospitality classes. Learners are provided with data to enable them to attend these online classes. The following programmes are available for Unemployed Youth:

- Advanced learners receive massage lessons.
- Learners are given support in their endeavours.
- Students are introduced to online learning.

• An interviewing skills course.
• Job preparation, recommendation reviews, providing placement opportunities and providing support for learners.
YSO Challenges

- Our technical skills programme has not yet received any donations for a much-needed special dust extractor.
- Sadly, in March 2020, we had to say farewell to our overseas volunteers, due to the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Several learners do not have access to Wi-Fi, which is a requirement to access the available online classes. However, recently, it was made possible for students to purchase data from a nearby service provider, Ikeja, for R5 per day.
- Unfortunately, the Bright’s Hardware facilitator resigned from the company, therefore, the programme had to be suspended until the start of 2022.

ASP Highlights

- An Easter collection was arranged to support vulnerable communities over the Easter Weekend. Easter Eggs and healthy fruit was purchased and distributed in the Athlone, Bokmakierie community (partnered with Victory Outreach) and the New Crossroads and Nyanga community. Through this initiative, over 350 children were recipients of fruit and Easter eggs.
- One of our alumni who is currently training at the Vineyard Hotel passed his NVQ Level 2
- Two beauty students started their beauty businesses.
- Audio lens donated seven small canvas prints for our technical skills programme.
- One beauty learner was placed in Clicks V&A
- Four learners started a month contract with Bright’s.
- One of our Amy alumni opened a soup kitchen for children in his area.
- Our students at the Vineyard Hotel were called back to complete 3 weeks of theory to receive a Learnership certificate.
• We pursued the train-the-trainer concept and successfully piloted off-site practical workshops for our Beauty and Sewing disciplines, in Philippi and Khayelitsha respectively, using identified Amy Foundation Beauty and Sewing alumni from the respective communities, as facilitators.
• We started setting up an e-learning platform. (include the link here)
• We fulfilled corporate mask orders and produced masks for charity. Masks were sold at Cavendish Square.
• We held our certificate ceremony for Beauty, with support from Development partner, Refectocil.

Many of our placement development partners, especially in the Hospitality industry were hard hit by COVID-19. We will slowly and mindfully begin prospecting again, to create and facilitate exciting opportunities for our new intake of learners. We will also be looking for new development partners.
Our targets for the new year are 600 students. Whilst ambitious, we are filled with hope that, despite the effects of Covid, we will reach our targets and fulfil not only our dreams but those of the future citizens of our country. We will continue to explore creative and innovative ways in which to achieve these targets, especially through the consistent use of technology.

Collaborations and Partnerships

The Amy Foundation works closely with other stakeholders and outreach partners. These partnerships enhance the quality of the experiences in our programmes.
Without partnerships with like-minded people and organizations, we cannot fulfil our mission and our vision to enhance the lives of those who are struggling.

We are deeply grateful to those communities who opened up their school halls and community centres so that our programmes can re-open.
COVID-19

In April 2020, our centres were forced to close due to the COVID-19 induced lockdown. In response, our focus became a humanitarian one, which involved us doing feeding schemes as well as the delivering of bread to our three partner schools, where we ran feeding schemes twice a week feeding up to 1500 community members per day. Thanks to our Premier Food – Blue Ribbon, FoodForward SA and Coca Cola Peninsula Beverages partnership we were able to provide bread, cooked meals with fruit, water and soft drinks to the local communities.

In YSD we very quickly converted to virtual classes which was a great success and from September 2020 a hybrid of onsite and virtual. We also fed the students from time to time and gave them food parcels.

Sustainability

The Amy Foundation subscribes to sound financial practices using financial reports and an annual external audit. We also have a strong Board and an Audit, Risk and Governance Committee. The financial sustainability of the Amy Foundation is primarily based on the support of our many donors/funders and diversified income streams.

Additionally, all our YSD disciplines contain an element of income-generating activities. These demonstrate to the learners the principle of turning skill into an income-generating opportunity.

CONCLUSION

The Amy Foundation programmes make a large and lasting impact on the levels of support and information youth in poorer communities can access at participating schools. For participating youth, the increase in support and information will directly lead to academic improvement, increased motivation to study, greater awareness of available options and resources, better behaviour, healthier peer group activity, improved life skills and confidence. Schools and employers will benefit from learners that are better informed, better motivated and better behaved and both the number of learners and the quality of results achieved should improve.

The Amy Foundation has the experience, expertise, credibility, infrastructure and track record to deliver the quality training, support materials and after school and youth skills development programmes our youth and schools need. We will continue to change lives and make a difference where it is so badly needed.
